2	Sacred to the Memory of Ann, Daughter of T. Franklyn, late of Duneany, in Co. Of Kildare, Esqr., & wife if Joseph Lefanu. Actuated in her conduct by A rational sense of religion , a good understanding, The tenderest nature & the most delicate feelings. She filled the several relations if Daughter, Sister, Wife & Mother In a manner truly exemplary, Having endured the suffering of a severly protracted illness With unusual meekness and fortitude She yielded her breath to the God who gabe it With faith in His Word And am humble dependence of His promises pn 9th Febry., 1778 aged 31. yrs 2 mos. This Tribute Of respect for surch virtues And of love for such a character Is erected by a husband Who knew her worth And Feed what he has lost in her. "Tears cease to flow! they but insult the dead Whose spirit justly liv'd & pious fled Who, like thee, Anna, sweetly cou'd unite With duty love, the pleasing with the right;Who fond cou'd prop a father's failing age His ains cou'd soothe, his parting hour assuage; Who, while thy years yet seem'd to ask a guide For sisters cou'd maternal care provide; Who still on self scarce spending a desire, To child & husband gave a heart entire. O timeless snatch'd from life & love away But happy thou! Wretched those doom'd to stay, Go, gentle soul! & a vain world's vain noise Exchange for transports pure, eternal joys."	Miss Vigors
